Lost in toyland

OAKVILLE (Staff) — Oakville Detective Dennis Kaye walked up to the 6-year-old yesterday who stood clutching a toy and staring at the gold fish in the department store's pet section.

"What's your name, son?" he asked the fair-haired youngster.

"Darrell," the boy answered.

"Well, I guess you'd better come with me, we've been looking for you all night," Detective Kaye said, ending an 18-hour search that involved about 150 police, firemen, volunteer citizens, members of an amateur radio club Oakville REACT, and a provincial police aircraft.

While Gerald Grantham and other volunteers tramped in the rain and darkness through bush and tall grass, son Darrell spent the night comfortably inside a Towers department store, playing with toys in the store's toy department and sleeping on a display bed.
